

RATE ME RED

Part comic science fiction, part social satire, Rate Me Red takes place in the near future when Twitter, Facebook, You Tube, reality television and Ebay have all merged into the VidNet. Everyone and anyone can have a VidNet show, but it's the people who are rated, not the shows, on a scale from Purple to Red. The central character, Gordy has a...

Reader's Opinions

In Rate Me Red, by Richie Chevat, it is 2043, and reality television, social media, and online shopping have united into the VidNet. Anyone can host a VidNet show, and the popularity of the...

Fun stuff. Most books that start with characters in a different state from the norm are about how bad that state is and how they need to leave it. By state I mean situation in which one exists, not like Oklahoma. {But people do exist in Oklahoma. I've been there.} Rate Me Red was published in 2009, before our culture became even more...
